Jap Earthquake Effected Better Understanding Between Japs And U.S.

(Copyright, 1923, By The U. P.)
(Copyrighted in Canada)
Tokio, October 26.—(By The United Press)—The Japanese earthquake effected understanding with America which the ablest men of both countries had previously attempted to attain by diplomatic means. Ambassador Gombi Yamaoka, prime minister of Japan, told Carl A. Bickel, president of the United Press in his first interview since becoming premier. He gave a complete outline of the government ideas on reconstruction in devastated areas. He declared that Japan intends to rely principally on her own resources for rebuilding. This is the first time his intentions were officially pronounced.

The government intends primarily to draw on our own economic resources for reconstruction of stricken districts, but the government is conscious of the fact that consummation of reconstruction plans depends on sympathetic assistance of friendly countries. The Japanese people are determined to engage in reconstruction in a dauntless spirit, to adopt methods based on the most modern scientific knowledge as well as valuable experience gained from the catastrophe. In behalf of the government and people of Japan, I wish to express my heartfelt thanks for the sincere work done and the sympathetic exhibition by the United States.

"I deem this ungrudging help as a manifestation of the friendliness of the American people. I have not the slightest doubt it has produced an indelible impression on the minds of the Japanese and strengthened more than ever the long existing concord between the American and Japanese people. Our people succeeded in maintaining our tranquility during and after the calamity. We are able to repay partially the assistance of foreign powers by accomplishing relief of sufferers; in comparatively short time. Our authorities are now zealously undertaking the task of reconstruction and the government will soon publish a concrete, comprehensive plan."

Orioles To Have Fast Team

Manager Homer Bairston, of the Orioles basketball team, has announced that his five will open the season on November 10, when they meet the South Webster High School team. South Webster High has most of their regulars back from last year's record-breaking team, and that means the Orioles will have to step some to turn in a victory. The Orioles have a tough schedule ahead of them, as Manager Bairston has booked games only with first-class teams, his motto being "It is an honor to win from good teams, but there's no glory winning from teams out of your class."

Bairston and Brown will be on the guard positions this year, with Wohler and Dawson forwards, while Captain McCoy will play center. All five have had considerable experience on the indoor court and with a little practice will be able to put up a fast game. Last year McCoy established a record for himself when he made 103 baskets in 12 games. Waldo Klinker is one of the first line subs. He is a former Sciotoville High School star. Art Gulker is another player being counted on to do his share of guarding and point getting in the phishes.

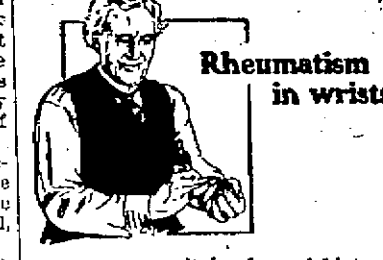

Walton To Appear Before Senate To Answer Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., Oct. 26.—(By The Associated Press)—This week will see Governor J. C. Walton, about whose official head has revolved a tumultuous uproar for the past two months, appearing before the state senate to answer to the charges of incompetence, corruption and moral turpitude which the lower house of the legislature voted against him. The governor will go before the senate Thursday and it is believed his appearance will be accompanied by his counsel filing a general denial of the charges against him. The senate, sitting as a court, presided over by the chief justice of the state supreme court, will consider the demurrer and unless it is sustained, the governor must go to trial.

A report that Governor Walton has been approached about a Chautauque lecture contract became prevalent yesterday and although the governor would not comment, his friends intimated that he was considering such a proposal. It was pointed out that in case he is removed from office he might accept the offer but only on that condition.

The governor would then tell the world about his war with the Invisible Empire.

Lloyd George Viewing American Battlefields

RICHMOND, VA., October 29.—(By The Associated Press)—Continuing his tour of Virginia battlefields began yesterday with visits to Fredericksburg, and the scene of the wilderness fighting. David Lloyd George set out from Richmond early today to view the scenes of operations around the former Confederate capital, first turning his attention to the historic locality of the seven days' struggle in the summer of 1862.

The former British premier, who arrived in this city late yesterday, and spent the night as the guest of John Stewart Dryan, publisher of the Richmond News-Leader, was attended on his tour today by Rear Admiral Carey T. Grayson, of Washington, and a committee of local citizens.

Mr. Lloyd George planned a close study of the scene of the encounter precipitated by General McClellan at the head of the Federal forces. Displaying a keen interest in the military tactics of Lee and Jackson, the war time premier of Great Britain, accompanied by Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George, in his inspection yesterday agreed with his guides that the world war had developed no military commander like either of these southern leaders and ventured the opinion that the history of America might have been different had "Stonewall" Jackson lived.

Commenting upon the personalities of the outstanding war chiefs of the conflict between the states and the recent world struggle, Mr. Lloyd George said: "I think the men most like those two (Lee and Jackson) were Foch and Allenby. There was something about Allenby that very definitely suggested Jackson."

Asked if he did not think the French General Gouraud resembled Jackson, he replied: "Somewhat, but I think there was more of the Lee in him. In fact I think that is true of Foch."

On his arrival here last night Mr. Lloyd George was greeted by huge crowds who cheered and waved an enthusiastic greeting as he passed through the broad streets here. The program for the city's distinguished guest, included a public drive about Richmond and then to visit the Confederate soldiers' home. He had planned to spend the late afternoon and evening in quiet before his scheduled departure before midnight for Philadelphia.

Get Control Of Placer Gold Fields

MOSCOW, October 29.—(By The Associated Press)—Prospecting rights in approximately 3,000 square miles of placer gold fields in the Amur Basin have been conceded to the Far East Exploration Company headed by Henry T. Hunt, of Cincinnati. The concession was obtained by Charles H. Smith, former American member of the Chinese Eastern Railway Commission, who now is in Moscow. The company expects to begin work in the spring, but its rights are available until January 1, 1925, after which date it must make a final contract, meanwhile paying from 5 to 8 per cent royalties in addition to an average charge. The fields were last worked in 1915.

France Putting Up Bars LONDON, October 29.—(By The Associated Press)—The reservations which Premier Poincare attaches to French assent to the proposed reparations inquiry are regarded by the London newspapers as making the building of the conference very problematical.

"It begins to be a question whether an inquiry conditioned by such restrictions can serve any useful purpose," says the Times.

The Times questions whether America will share in the inquiry under the conditions prescribed by Premier Poincare.

The Daily News and the Westminster Gazette urge that if Poincare's decision is final, Great Britain should ask the United States to come into a conference of which France is not a member.

The Morning Post says: "If all the allies were as resolute as Premier Poincare, or as determined as the United States, in getting money back, Germany would soon be brought to reason."

"These machines never have been declared lawful, except by some municipal judges. Common pleas and appellate courts invariably have held them to be lawful. It behooves the people to vote for mayors and municipal judges that will heed the decisions of our appellate courts."

In the absence of a supreme court ruling the decisions of our courts of appeals must govern in Ohio," the governor concluded.

NERVES ON FIRE FROM NEURITIS

Thousands of people afflicted with neuritis take medicine for rheumatism and wonder why they don't get well. Such people do not know that even a slight attack of neuritis may develop into a severe case of neuritis or "nerve inflammation," which calls for different treatment.

Neuritis is often accompanied by a feeling as if the nerves were on fire, soreness in the muscles, stiffness in the joints or a tingling sensation in the hands or feet. Always there is pain—sharp, agonizing pain—which may last constantly or only at intervals.

Eppa Nerve Tablets will quickly soothe the throbbing, aching nerves and gradually assist in removing inflammation and soreness. Guaranteed harmless, used and endorsed by physicians. Price 21. Senator Willis Addresses Bible Classes In Trinity Church; Given Hearty Reception

Senator Frank B. Willis, senior Senator from Ohio in the National Assembly, addressed a capacity audience in Trinity Sunday School yesterday morning. Brought here by the Trinity Men's Bible Class, Willis found in his audience the combined Men's Classes of the city who turned out for the special occasion almost to a man as on the invitation of the Trinity Class.

After a hard week touring the hills and mountains of Eastern and Northern Kentucky, where he delivered several speeches daily in the interest of the Republican candidates in the sister state on the South, Senator Willis stated that he would very much have preferred another day to the last one from the hard campaigning and rough traveling.

Besides the splendid Sunday School orchestra for which Trinity has long been noted, special music was furnished by the Milton Singers, a quartet composed of members of the Trinity Men's Class which was organized some years ago and sang under similar circumstances to those of yesterday when the then Senator Warren G. Harding, a few years back addressed the class.

Starting out by paying a beautiful tribute to the late President Warren G. Harding, Senator Willis feelingly told of the first time he ever saw Mr. Harding. It was at a county political convention where, as a delegate, he added in nominating Mr. Harding for the first office he ever held. In bridging the years the speaker told of his first meeting with the President in the latter's room in the Capitol building in Washington on the fourth of last March. Worn with the work incident to signing the large number of bills which always come with the close of a session of Congress, Mr. Willis had the President good-bye and hoped he would secure a good rest over the vacation of Congress.

Taking as his theme "Law Enforcement," Mr. Willis yesterday spoke for three quarters of an hour. Noted the country over as being possessed of one of the most powerful voices by any one in American political life, Mr. Willis, with the greatest of ease, carried his message to every one in the great auditorium. He told of President Harding's great interest in law enforcement and gave numerous statistical incidents showing that the disrespect for law in the United States far antedates the Eighteenth Amendment which the opponents of the latter are so willing to credit with all the country's ills.

The speaker stated that he was no stranger to Portsmouth as he had delivered speeches from the same platform no fewer than fifteen times previously. This was due mostly to the fact that he was a college professor for many years and as an institute lecturer had engagement after engagement as instructor of the State County Teachers' Institutes, he always being a favorite with the teachers of this city and county.

Following an intermission of about an hour Senator Willis supplanted the pastor, Rev. Smith, as speaker at the regular church services to another fine audience. For more than half an hour the speaker dwelt most fully on the problem of immigration.

I explained at the first meeting of the committee that there is no interest in the United States in a loan to Germany per se. There is, however, in my opinion, a growing appreciation in the United States of the fact that its own prosperity is to a degree dependent upon the prosperity prosperity of the latter is, in a large degree, dependent upon the rehabili-satisfactorily established:

"First—Such a loan should be at the request and would be for the benefit of the allied nations. This could be in no way better expressed than by the active co-operation of the private bankers of the allied countries in distributing of the German securities to their nationals.

"Second—Through the technical security to be given by Germany and the rehabilitation of its internal fi-clearly show a desire to meet its obligations in the hope by the fulfillment of that obligation it could re-establish

Gun Battle Results in One Robber Being Wounded; Earl Higgins Is Hold-Up Victim

IRONTON, O., Oct. 29.—Mack Walters, 34, of Lancaster and May Smith, probably 35, of Nelsonville, were lodged in the county jail here by Sheriff Dement and Deputy Wilson, following their arrest on a charge of robbery. Another member of the party, Rufus Deeds, 40, is in a Gallipolis hospital, due to wounds received from the officers at Gallipolis, following a battle which resulted from an attempt to put the trio under arrest.

At Marion, this county, the party is alleged to have robbed the grocery store owned by Oscar Woods, getting $35 and two watches for their trouble.
They were traveling about the country in a big Studebaker touring car, and later they came to South Point, where they staged a hold-up at the Earl Higgins store. They held up the proprietor and a number of customers at the point of guns, rifled the cash drawer and the pockets of customers, and obtained about $140 in currency and a number of watches, rings and other jewelry. It was charged by Sheriff Dement.

Staged Robbery at Manhattan
From South Point the trio speeded to Manhattan, a town not far away and staged a robbery of the same nature of a store there, which resulted in the loss of about $50 in cash, a number of checks and all of the watches in the store.

When notified by the Ironton officials, the Gallipolis officers, Chief of Police Sowards, Officer Long and Deputy Sheriff Belcher made for the lower end of the city, where they awaited the coming of the trio. On arriving at the lower end of the city the Gallipolis officers noticed a car parked in front of the filling station, and occupied by two men and a woman who exactly answered the description given by the local officers. They approached the car and ordered the men to elevate their hands, but instead they showed fight and reached for their revolvers.
The officers, however, had the drop on them and although one of the men succeeded in getting the shooting from the front of his pocket, the officers opened fire with disastrous results. The fight was short-lived as both men were injured a bullet plowing its way through Deeds' head, going in at the eye and out the side of his head. Walters received a bullet through the right hand.
Both men were taken to the hospital where it was learned that the wound in Deeds' head was not serious.

point of a gun formerly resided here

therefore, the two fundamental conditions of American participation were, in my opinion, unanimity among its leaders and the establishment of the credit of the borrower."

Mr. Morgan then pointed out that a difference of opinion had arisen in the committee as between the French and English texts of the instructions, from the Reparations commission as to the scope of the parity, the discussion ending in a decision by the Reparations commission to the effect, that the commission should discuss all questions having a bearing on Germany's external credit. The French member dissented even from that.

Then official statements began to be made in Paris saying the bankers committee was attempting to do create the amount of the German obligation and that "this could not be tolerated by the French government."
"The committee had never thought," said Mr. Morgan, "and in this I agreed completely that it had any power to pass upon the sums owing by the German government but merely that it had been requested to advise the Reparations commission as to a basis upon which Germany could raise a loan. There had been no discussion of the capital amounts of reparations but only of a possible arrangement of the annual payments. These annual payments either in cash or in kind were the only method whereby Germany can effect payment of its debts.

"I am now and shall continue to be ready to do everything in my power to assist in the solution of the problems which confront the economic life of Europe but I believe that insofar as such problems depend for their solution upon an international loan to Germany, in which the American investor would take part, the solution is not possible without a general settlement of the reparations question. Undoubtedly a settlement of this question involves the consideration and arrangement of many other questions which must be settled between the governments in order to arrive at the unanimity required for the first condition of a loan. I shall be ready at anytime to return and do anything in my power when conditions permit and the Reparations commission may desire."

That's the way matters have resolved for more than a year. And before any encouragement can be derived from the acceptance in principle by the French of the British-American proposal, it must first be learned exactly what the French now are willing to discuss. Will they let the experts fix the annual Germany can pay? Will the experts be permitted to say what the penalties for non-payment by Germany will be and who will enforce them?

The parity's true value will not be known till the terms of the invitation issued by the reparations commission —which now is dominated by France —are made known. America is entitled to a representative on the commission but has never taken its place officially there. The American, Italian and British votes would undoubtedly be combined and have a great influence on the way the Belgian and French members would vote. As it is the French dominate the Italian and Belgian members and the British stand alone. The possibility that the French may be more flexible today in view of the change in the German situation is therefore the sole hope of official Washington.

Former Local Man Killed in Chillicothe; Meets Death Under Wheels of N. & W. Train

CHILICOTHE, O., Oct. 29.—Jumping off a south bound N. & W. freight train as it was picking up speed at the Main street crossing, Edgar L.
Allison, 37, Madison, Ill., was thrown to the N. & W. depot platform and rolled under the wheels of the train to his death. Allison hit on his head and his senseless body was pulled between the platform and the tie. One foot was crushed off, his head and face badly cut and mashed, and the body was dismembered.
Allison was alive when dragged from the rails after sixty or seventy cars had passed over him, but died in Ware's ambulance on the way to the hospital. Cards found on his body showed he had been going under two names, "C. W. Allison" and "Allen Murphy." He was a railroad man and was on his way to Portsmouth at the time of the accident.

Rain Falls; Means Traffic Resumption on the Ohio

Steamboat traffic on the Ohio river which has been tied up for several weeks due to low water, especially between this city and Cincinnati, will probably be resumed in part within a couple of days and from all indications the boats will be back on their schedules by the end of the week, according to Capt. W. D. Kumble, local wharf-master, who stated to-day recent rain fall had resulted in swelling the stream to such an extent, outside the pools, to permit resumption of navigation.

He stated that the str. Tom Green, which passed here Saturday night, got through to Cincinnati yesterday in good shape and is scheduled to leave the Queen City on the return trip Tuesday evening.
The river registered a pool of 13.0 feet here this morning.

POLICE STOP KU KLUX KLAN PARADE; 244 ARRESTS MADE: KLANSMEN ARE MARCHED THROUGH STREETS BY CHIEF DISTEL

Face Charge of Obstructing Traffic; Many Were Robed; Fiery Cross Burned Near the Police Headquarters

Attempt of members of the Ku Klux Klan to march over city streets in parade formation, and garbed in the masked robes of their order, resulted in police interference Sunday afternoon, and those in the line of march were taken to the police station, under escort of police, where they were registered and ordered to appear in Municipal court Monday afternoon to face charges of obstructing traffic.

The arrest followed refusal of Mayor Gableman to issue a permit for the parade, and a formal request by Chief of Police Distel to the Klansmen not to attempt to march on the city streets. This warning was given as Klansmen were assembling in Mound Park, the Chief asking the Klansmen to disperse, and warning them that they would be placed under arrest if they set foot on the streets in parade formation. The orders were disregarded, and the arrest followed.

Klansmen submitted quietly to Chief Distel's orders, and they followed him and two other officers, in parade formation, from the hill-top to the police station, where they were registered.

The Klansmen had gathered at Mound Park to the number of about 250, mostly arrayed in robes. They formed in line and planned to march to the laying of the cornerstone of the First Lutheran church at Grant and Grandview avenues.

They were halted on Grandview avenue, one square north from the scene of the church exercises, by Chief of Police Distel, and placed under arrest on the charge of blocking traffic. The Klansmen, who were marching behind their leader, quietly submitted to the orders of the chief, with two of his deputies, led the members of the two organizations, through the streets of the city to the police station, where they were marched in single file through the station and their names and addresses secured. They were then allowed to go to their respective homes on their own recognition with orders to report for hearing at one o'clock Monday afternoon.

As a result of the arrest of the Klansmen, Portsmouth saw one of the most exciting times in her history. However, there was no disorder, although it is estimated that fully 10,000 people had assembled near the police station when the marchers reached that point. Many men climbed to the top of telephone poles, while others were perched on awning frames in order to survey the vast crowd. Everybody, it seemed, was in good humor, and while the burning of a four foot cross on the steps of the Massie school building, caused some disquietude, this incident passed off without serious trouble. There was some cheering, especially when the first Klansman entered the police station door carrying aloft an American flag.

While the Klansmen were having their names enrolled on the police blotter, a member of the order climbed up a telephone pole in the school yard near the police station and led the vast crowd in singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

When those arrested had registered the Klansmen and Kamelias assembled on Second street, near Gay, and then in a body marched to their hall, Fifth and Chillicothe streets. Previous to starting for the First Lutheran church when the Klansmen had assembled at Mound Park, Klansman J. A. Goddard, of Scioto County Klansmen, announced that a collection would be taken for the new church building. Several Klansmen passed the hat among their members and a sum of $200 was secured. This was turned over to one of the Klansmen who in turn went to the corner stone laying exercises and there mingled with the crowd and was busily engaged in taking up a tree will offering when the Klansmen, under escort of the chief of police and his deputies passed that point. There was no move on the part of the marching Klansmen to linger near the services, and they continued to march on behind the officers.

First Klansman Arrived Early

The first of the Klansmen with his uniform arrived at Mound Park as early as one o'clock. He carried his uniform in a rubber bag. Others followed quickly, and by half past one nearly a hundred of the members of the order were scattered about the park, some of them fully robed while others were donning their white robes and masks. A number of women also were appearing here and there in the crowd in the full regalia of their order. Rumors were flying about of all kinds. One rumor was that there was to be no attempt at a parade, but an open air meeting was to be held. Another was that Governor Donahoe had given permission for the parade, and one rumor even had it that the governor was in the city to see the event.

About twenty minutes of two Mayor Gableman, Chief of Police Distel and some policemen drove up in automobiles. The Mayor and Police Chief circulated through the crowd for a short time, until the members of the Klan began to form in line on the west side of the park, adjacent to Hutchins street, and facing Grant street. Most of the Klansmen and the Kamelias had their masks down, and whenever the men who appeared to be the leaders noticed anyone with his or her mask down, a order to mask was quickly given and as quickly obeyed.

By this time several thousand people had gathered in and around the park, and automobiles were strung along the streets for squares. As one excited individual said, "It looks as if the whole town is here."

The American flag was conspicuous also in the midst of the Klansmen, and there was also a banner inscribed, "Scioto County Chapter Ku Klux Klan." A large Bible was also carried by one of the masked men.

Shortly after two o'clock it became evident that the Klan members had been about ready to march. They had been lined up two or three abreast, and stretched back through the park for a considerable distance. At this instant Chief of Police Distel came through the crowd toward the head of the parade line. The crowd gave way for him, and there was no sign of disorder of any kind.

Chief Distel addressed the Klansmen, and two feet from the men in the front rank of the Klansmen Chief Distel said:

"Gentlemen, I take it for granted that you intend to parade today in the name of the Ku Klux Klan. Saturday and upon another occasion the leaders of your organization were denied permission to parade by the Mayor. I ask you in the name of the law to disband and disperse quietly. If you violate this order I will be forced to place all of you under arrest."

One of the Klansmen threw back his mask as the Chief of Police stopped talking, and said, "I am the organizer. What grounds are you going to arrest these men? They are not breaking any law that we know of."

"You will be told the charge when you are arrested," replied Chief Distel. "We are not here to stage a parade, the unmasked Klansman continued. "We have been invited to assist in the ceremonies attending the laying of the cornerstone of the new Lutheran church at Grandview and Grant streets. We were invited to come in a body, and we have selected this spot as the nearest to the church as place of assembly. We intend to walk peacefully to the church."

"I can't help that. If you appear on the streets in parade formation and masked I will have to arrest you," said the chief.

"You will have to arrest us then, for we are going over to the church," was the reply, and there was a cheer from the dense throng that had surrounded the place.

"Men, we want no violence. Do not resist in any manner if you are placed under arrest," the Klansman said as he turned to the masked figures about him.

The police, with Chief Distel at their head, had stationed themselves along Grant street side of the park, and all the spectators believed the line of march would be in that direction. But when the Klansmen were given the order to move a few seconds later they counter-marched, and went in the direction of Seventeenth street. The marchers kept on the grass in the park the entire distance to Seventeenth street, and many began to believe they intended to keep within the park as long as they could, and until they were in the vicinity of the new church.

At the corner of Hutchins and Seventeenth however, the leaders cut out into the street and were followed by the Klansmen, robed and unrobed to the number of about 250.

Moved East On Seventeenth Street

The parade moved East on Seventeenth to Grandview without molestation, and the thousands who had gathered in the park and most of whom were following along, decided there was going to be no further excitement. As they turned South on Grandview avenue, however, someone shouted, "Here come the police," and a squad of officers, headed by Chief Distel, were seen coming North on Grandview. The two lines met about midway and Chief Distel threw up his hand.

The Klansmen stopped at the signal, and Chief Distel said, "You have disregarded my warning. I therefore place you all under arrest."

The same Klansman who had talked before, said, "On what charge do you arrest these men?"

"For obstructing traffic," replied Chief Distel.

"There hasn't been any obstruction to traffic until you stopped us," was the quick reply of the Klansman.

"For obstructing traffic," replied Chief Distel.

"Follow the Chief of Police peacefully," said the Klan leader, and the "parade that was not a parade" began.

With Chief Distel and officers leading the line of marchers, the entire body of Klansmen and Kamelias continued on down Grandview. They passed the new church building without stopping, turned west on Robinson, then to Twelfth and west to Offense.

Automobiles were scouring about by this time, the sidewalks and streets were full of spectators, and it looked for all the world like a circus had just struck town with a parade. Word spread quickly that the parade was to wind up at the Police station, and a race for that point began.

The "parade which was not a parade" in the meantime turned south on Offense to Eleventh, west on Eleventh to Waller, south on Waller to Second. Before the column was sighted coming west on Second thousands had filled the street in the vicinity of the police station. Officers stood about the front of the station, but there was no disorder of any kind. Many who remained in the vicinity of Chillicothe and Gallia street anxiously awaiting the parade flocked to the vicinity of the police station.

Marched In Eight abreast

The parade reached the police station, Chief Distel and other officers at the head, turned in to the front door. Orders were quickly given to "send in the paraders about eight at a time."

"Here send the American flag with the first bunch," said the Klan leader, and there was a shout from many of the crowd as the flag was carried into the police station with the first eight, "we the Bible along, also," shouted another Klansman, and the Bible was also carried conspicuously by one of the masked paraders.

A policeman was stationed at the door and passed in the paraders in squads. At the desk in the main room lined up two or three abreast, and stretched back through the park for a considerable distance. At this instant Chief of Police Distel came through the crowd toward the head of the parade line. The crowd gave way for him, and there was no sign of disorder of any kind.

"Men, we want no violence. Do not resist in any manner if you are placed under arrest," the Klansman said as he turned to the masked figures about him.

The police, with Chief Distel at their head, had stationed themselves along Grant street side of the park, and all the spectators believed the line of march would be in that direction. But when the Klansmen were given the order to move a few seconds later they counter-marched, and went in the direction of Seventeenth street. The marchers kept on the grass in the park the entire distance to Seventeenth street, and many began to believe they intended to keep within the park as long as they could, and until they were in the vicinity of the new church.

At the corner of Hutchins and Seventeenth however, the leaders cut out into the street and were followed by the Klansmen, robed and unrobed to the number of about 250.

Moved East On Seventeenth Street

The parade moved East on Seventeenth to Grandview without molestation, and the thousands who had gathered in the park and most of whom were following along, decided there was going to be no further excitement. As they turned South on Grandview avenue, however, someone shouted, "Here come the police," and a squad of officers, headed by Chief Distel, were seen coming North on Grandview. The two lines met about midway and Chief Distel threw up his hand.

The Klansmen stopped at the signal, and Chief Distel said, "You have disregarded my warning. I therefore place you all under arrest."

The same Klansman who had talked before, said, "On what charge do you arrest these men?"

"For obstructing traffic," replied Chief Distel.

"There hasn't been any obstruction to traffic until you stopped us," was the quick reply of the Klansman.

"For obstructing traffic," replied Chief Distel.

"Follow the Chief of Police peacefully," said the Klan leader, and the "parade that was not a parade" began.

With Chief Distel and officers leading the line of marchers, the entire body of Klansmen and Kamelias continued on down Grandview. They passed the new church building without stopping, turned west on Robinson, then to Twelfth and west to Offense.

Automobiles were scouring about by this time, the sidewalks and streets were full of spectators, and it looked for all the world like a circus had just struck town with a parade. Word spread quickly that the parade was to wind up at the Police station, and a race for that point began.

The "parade which was not a parade" in the meantime turned south on Offense to Eleventh, west on Eleventh to Waller, south on Waller to Second. Before the column was sighted coming west on Second thousands had filled the street in the vicinity of the police station. Officers stood about the front of the station, but there was no disorder of any kind. Many who remained in the vicinity of Chillicothe and Gallia street anxiously awaiting the parade flocked to the vicinity of the police station.

Marched In Eight abreast

The parade reached the police station, Chief Distel and other officers at the head, turned in to the front door. Orders were quickly given to "send in the paraders about eight at a time."

"Here send the American flag with the first bunch," said the Klan leader, and there was a shout from many of the crowd as the flag was carried into the police station with the first eight, "we the Bible along, also," shouted another Klansman, and the Bible was also carried conspicuously by one of the masked paraders.

A policeman was stationed at the door and passed in the paraders in squads. At the desk in the main room lined up two or three abreast, and stretched back through the park for a considerable distance. At this instant Chief of Police Distel came through the crowd toward the head of the parade line. The crowd gave way for him, and there was no sign of disorder of any kind.

Chief Distel addressed the Klansmen, and two feet from the men in the front rank of the Klansmen Chief Distel said:

"Gentlemen, I take it for granted that you intend to parade today in the name of the Ku Klux Klan. Saturday and upon another occasion the leaders of your organization were denied permission to parade by the Mayor. I ask you in the name of the law to disband and disperse quietly. If you violate this order I will be forced to place all of you under arrest."

One of the Klansmen threw back his mask as the Chief of Police stopped talking, and said, "I am the organizer. What grounds are you going to arrest these men? They are not breaking any law that we know of."

"You will be told the charge when you are arrested," replied Chief Distel. "We are not here to stage a parade, the unmasked Klansman continued. "We have been invited to assist in the ceremonies attending the laying of the cornerstone of the new Lutheran church at Grandview and Grant streets. We were invited to come in a body, and we have selected this spot as the nearest to the church as place of assembly. We intend to walk peacefully to the church."

"I can't help that. If you appear on the streets in parade formation and masked I will have to arrest you," said the chief.

"You will have to arrest us then, for we are going over to the church," was the reply, and there was a cheer from the dense throng that had surrounded the place.

"Men, we want no violence. Do not resist in any manner if you are placed under arrest," the Klansman said as he turned to the masked figures about him.

The police, with Chief Distel at their head, had stationed themselves along Grant street side of the park, and all the spectators believed the line of march would be in that direction. There have been no affidavits filed in this court so therefore there is no case before the court. Municipal Court Judge Stanley McCall this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock when the court was ready to hear the cases on charges of blocking traffic, resulting from the Klan demonstration yesterday. The court room was packed and jammed and the large numbers who could not get inside thronged about the front of the city building.

Attorneys Luther Thompson and Edgar Miller appeared for the Klan and Attorney Horace Small was present to assist in the prosecution. Solicitor Sherrard Johnson reported to the court that the cases were in such number that he did not have time to prepare and file the affidavits. He suggested that he be given several days in which to prepare the affidavits. Attorney Thompson for the defense stated that

Car Plunges Into Creek; Woman Drowned

The Ironton Register says: "Mrs. Glen Riley, 28, living near Bradrick, was drowned yesterday afternoon in Guyan creek when her automobile turned turtle over the bank, pinning her beneath.

"They got out but as she backed toward the bank she lost control, the machine plunging over the side and falling with the wheels upward in the water.

"Although the party searched frantically for help, it was full fifteen minutes before the woman could be released from under the heavy car. She was found dead, having met death by drowning.

Rev. Scott Assigned To Allen Chapel; Rev. Brown Sent To New Conference

At the annual A. M. E. conference which came to a close in Cincinnati yesterday, Rev. T. D. Scott was assigned to Allen Chapel of this city to succeed Rev. Norman W. Brown, who was transferred to the Northern Ohio conference and assigned to Zanesville.

Rev. Scott, who came to Allen Chapel, has been pastor of the North Street A. M. E. church, Springfield, for several years, during which he established a fine record for effective church work. He is a former member of the faculty of Wilberforce University, near Xenia.

John W. Evans, who was a delegate at the conference, returned home today and announced his appointment as national agent for this district for Wilberforce University by Bishop Joshua H. Jones.

Rev. Scott, the new minister, is expected to come to Portsmouth this week to arrange for his coming here.

Coolidge Asks Bankers To Weed Out Undesirables In Banking

WASHINGTON, October 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Investment bankers of the country gathered here today for the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America were told in an address by President Coolidge that the country depended upon their assistance and help "to weed out those who are not desirable by reason of not maintaining a high standard of ability and honesty" in the banking business.

Addressing the bankers from the south portico of the White House, the president told them they were filling an important place in society by providing investment opportunities for "thrifty" American citizens. "But you do more than that," he continued. "You provide for the gathering together of the resources of our nation, putting them in order for the purpose of supporting the industries and commerce of our nation. You have your responsibilities. It is necessary that you should exercise sound judgment and discretion; it is necessary that you should always provide a safe and fair background on which your customers may rely. If there is anybody interested in honesty in the transaction of business, it is those who are engaged in making the investments of the nation and it is a great pleasure to commend with an almost universal commendation the honesty and the character of those who are engaged in this great enterprise.

Shuberts Sue

NEW YORK, October 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A suit in equity for $10,050,000 was filed in Federal court today by Shubert Vaudeville, Inc., against the B. F. Keith Vaudeville Exchange and the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., alleging violation of the Federal laws relating to restraint of trade.

HIGHWAYMEN BALKED

Police received a complaint about eight o'clock Sunday night that a young man, with a light cap and red sweater was attempting to stop machines and hold up people on the Lawson Run Viaduct. Dan Johnson, 315 Campbell avenue, was the driver of one machine he tried to stop. The young man also made a vain attempt to stop the machine just ahead of the Johnson car. When Mr. Johnson failed to slow down at the man's orders he called the driver every bad name he could lay his tongue out. Johnson notified the police but Captain Lee Startzman, who went to the scene failed to find any trace of the fellow.

JOURNEY'S ENTERTAINERS

Dry Agents Arrest Six

A squad of Federal prohibition agents, headed by F. W. Hicker, was quite active in this city Saturday night and Sunday, and as a result several persons were nabbed for alleged violating the dry laws.

E. R. Elam, 41, proprietor of a soft drink establishment on Gallia street, opposite the fire station, Edward Kirby, 42, bartender, and Lester Kirby, 18, a patron, were taken into custody after the officers visited the establishment and seized a jug containing a quantity of liquor, they aver.

M. P. Workman, soft drink proprietor, Eleventh and Clay streets, was nabbed by the officers following a raid on his place, and William Shields was brought in for alleged possessing liquor unlawfully.

George Watkins, colored, was nabbed under arrest when the officers claim they searched his pockets and found a couple of half pints of "moon" and a revolver, and Frank McConnell, colored, was arrested for taking a gun. Watkins was fined $200 and costs for possessing the liquor and $25 for gun-toting; by Squire Morgan today, and McConnell was penalized $25 and costs for gun-toting.

William Neal was fined $10 and costs and Thomas Wilson was taxed $5 and costs for intoxication.

Elmer Kirby, Martin, Workman and Shields are held at the county jail for preliminary hearing before local U. S. Commissioner Johnley for charges violating the National dry act.

The man purchased paper amounting to $5.22. At the Singer shop the man paid $5 of the check on a new machine. Each check was signed by E. E. Gordon and made out for Bill Peary, who endorses them. At the Gumpertine and Clark store he received $13.90 in cash, from Carroll $17.25 and from the Singer shop $17.50.

The man passed checks several weeks ago at the Will Moore and Fred Klingman stores in the West End. He also used the name E. E. Gordon and may be the same man.

He was careful to pick out the best kind of connections and gave instructions as to just where he wanted it placed, etc. He gave the address as 1010 Offshore.

A. J. Gumpertine, cement contractor, whose name was signed to the check, and learned that it was a forgery.

This morning about ten o'clock a representative of the Singer Sewing Machine Company delivered a machine to 1010 Offshore and while he was there talking with the woman living at that place, J. W. Carroll, Second street wallpaper man, arrived with wallpaper the man had stove for $6.00. He was careful to pick out the best kind of connections and gave instructions as to just where he wanted it placed, etc. He gave the address as 1010 Offshore.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Phillip Zoellner

Everlasting sleep came to another of the city's pioneer residents and most respected women Sunday when the final summons came at 9:15 a. m., to Mrs. Marie Scott Zoellner, widow of the late Phillip Zoellner, at her home, 309 Court street. Death came as a relief to many months of illness. Her illness dated back three years, but she had been seriously ill for a short time. She passed her last moments peacefully Thursday last and remained in that state until the end.

Mrs. Zoellner was born in Sinsheim, Baden, Germany, February 28, 18

Strong Features On Curb

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Several strong features were presented in the trading in the New York Curb today, due to factors especially influencing the position of a number of corporations and securities. Importance was attached to the trading in Petroleum Gas in view of the announcement that the company had acquired control of Producers and Refiners and now is offering its stock to the minority holders of that company in the proportion of that company's ownership of Producers and Refiners. In the early trading Prairie Oil and Gas moved up four points to 180, followed by a sharp reaction to 182, but later became quieter. And Accumulated Petroleum Gas was also strong in connection with the statements in regard to acquisition of independent pipe lines. Oilier oil issues were irregular but held close to recently prevailing prices. Both Standard Oil (Trading) and New York City (Trading) were strong in the forenoon and a fractional loss was sustained in Vacuum Oil. Many of the industrials were active and strong. DuPont was in steady demand and made a fractional advance. American Express reflected absorption, moving up nearly one point to a new high. Hudson Manhattan was steadily bought at a fraction advance. Gillette Safety Razor, after making a gain of one point, retreated over 10 points. Reading and Erie were fairly active. State Motors was weak while Durant Motors stocks were active, but generally without special change.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Attention to continued imports of Canadian wheat in the United States, duly paid, had a bearish effect on the Chicago wheat market today soon after the opening. Some show of firmness at the close, however, was in evidence. Liverpool quotations. On the other hand, the attitude of France relative to German reparations counted somewhat bearish influence. Smokehouse Team Swamps Lancaster Working to perfection a number of new plays, the Smokehouse team of Lancaster, Sunday on Millbrook field to the tune of 64 to 0. The Smokehouse team never looked better, several new players showing up well and the new plays working like clockwork. With the Smokehouse team, Adams and DeVoss were on the halves, with Thorne at full. Thorne proved himself a real star by the way he crawled through the line and ran the ends yesterday. It was the first time he had managed to get his feet under him. Adams and DeVoss made big gains and played a hard game along with his running mate DeVoss, who can always be counted upon.

The crowd, very small for the day, with all the excitement in the city, was shown in the Smokehouse when Englebrecht was called back from guard to play full and he hit the line like a veteran. Other line men will be given a chance in the backfield hereafter. Doll played a good game at end. Counts, of New Boston, performed at end like a veteran. He is a tough player and in the game every second.

The Lancaster team played hard, but was no match for the swift shift plays and formations put into effect by the locals who have practiced hard the past week.

The locals are getting in shape for the big game here next week with Huntington. On the following Sunday the Tanks play Millbrook.

Machine Is Damaged

Mrs. Albert Reiniger of 1818 Mulbert Road, suffered serious and dangerous injuries Sunday when the machine she was driving collided with one driven by Jack Winkle, a well known local merchant, the collision taking place just east of Union bridge place just east of Franklin. Mrs. Reiniger's car was badly damaged and had to be towed to the city by a wrecker. Mr. Winkle was able to drive his car back to Union, the only damage to it being a dent in the body.

Mrs. Reiniger says Mr. Winkle stopped his car so suddenly that she had no time to prevent the collision and her machine hit the Winkle car with great force. She was accompanied by her daughter, Louise and her mother, Mrs. Kate Hinkel of this city. They were uninjured.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES MARK LAYING OF CORNERSTONE OF LUTHERAN CHURCH

Second Presbyterian News

The Communion of the Lord's Supper and reception of members will be held on November 13th, at the morning service. Those who have church letters that have not been presented to the session should write for them and present them as soon as possible. Our pastor is very anxious that a large class of new members be welcomed at this Communion, which will be his last as pastor of this church. Every member is asked to enter into the spirit of mutual love and unity and should be brought to the church through your efforts.

The week beginning November eleventh has been set aside by the session as a week of Evangelism. When your pastor called upon you to help in making that week a success, he sure to answer willingly and readily that you will do what he asks.

The pastor and Mrs. Evans will be in Dayton, Ohio, the first three days of this week, but they will return for the mid-week service Wednesday night. The pastor is very anxious that the prayer meeting be well attended in the future, for he expects to talk over very intimately some things for the future of this church. The Teachers' Training Class will meet as usual after prayer meeting this week. Every teacher in the Junior Department is especially urged to be present at this meeting.

The interested in Sunday school are urged to attend the Sunday School Convention at the First Evangelical Church, November 1st and 2nd. State speakers will be present. Our state secretary, Mr. A. T. Arnold, will make two inspirational addresses in addition to his conference work. Those from our church who will have part in the program are: Mr. W. W. Gates, Mrs. Henry Heer, Mrs. Elizabeth, Mrs. Baughman, Mr. Wilfred Ellsesser, H. A. Wright, and the young ladies who so beautifully presented the pageant at the recent meeting of the Synod. Since our own Mr. Gates is president of the Sunday School Association in the county, a large attendance should be present from this church. The meetings open Thursday at two o'clock and continue through Friday afternoon.

The Boys' Club, under the leadership of Mr. Edward Arpee, is making a name for itself. Parents should be free to send their boys to the church at seven o'clock each Friday night, where they will receive good training, be under excellent supervision and enjoy themselves immensely. The Intermediate and Junior C. E. Societies meet every Sunday morning during the hour of the morning worship. All children under twelve years of age are urged to join these societies and enjoy their program. Parents are reminded that their children will be taken care of during the hour of morning worship in these societies.

All the ghosts, goblins, witches and black cats will be assembled to meet the Junior at seven o'clock Tuesday, October 30th, in the social hall of the church. There will be much excitement and many games during the evening. All Juniors must present their on-time tickets before they will be admitted. Beware of the Goblins!

Westminster Circle Halloween party. The Westminster Circle girls will have a Halloween party next Friday evening, November 2nd, in the church basement. A short business meeting will be held before the social hour. The program is as follows: Devotional, Clara Whitworth; "Mountain," Lucille Benson; "Slam," Doris Pyles; Social Hour and Halloween pranks. Come prepared to have the time of your life.

The members of the Ladies' Missionary Society and the Ketchum Auxiliary will hold a joint all-day mission study class at the church, Thursday, November 5th, beginning promptly at ten o'clock. The topic, "Creative Forces in Japan" will be studied. Luncheon will be served at a minimum price. Ladies, please report to your president not later than November 5th, whether or not you are going. Each lady bring her own plate, cup and silver.

The Women's Missionary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. James Kirby, 1318 Fourth street, on Tuesday afternoon, October 30th, at two o'clock. Group Leader, Mrs. John E. Williams. Mrs. H. A. Lloyd will have the foreign topic, "Indonesia." All members of the society are requested to be present.

The Judge Blair Bible class will have a Masquerade party Monday evening, October 29th in the social hall of the church. No member of the class should fail to be present.

Tire Thief Busy Again

Two tires and two rims were stolen from Carey Roberts' automobile Saturday night after eleven o'clock. The machine is kept in the yard in the rear of the Roberts grocery.

Machine Stolen; Recovered

George A. Patton, insurance representative, 1945 Hutchins street, was minus the services of his Studebaker six touring car for several hours Sunday. The machine was parked near Second Presbyterian church when he went to Sunday school and after the service the machine was missing.

About four o'clock Sunday afternoon he found his car on Ninth street just west of Lincoln. Residents of the neighborhood told the machine had been there since about 11 a. m., which indicated that the car had not been driven very far.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Confidence is conqueror of men; victorious both over them and in them.

Passion and prejudice govern the world under the name of reason.

There are some who find few companions so comfortable as solitude.

True humility is the highest virtue and mother of them all.

Some folks are wise and some are otherwise.

Often nothing is a man's enemy but himself.

Rumor is a sort of talk spread about without any author, to which itself has given a beginning, and credulity growth.

Law is mighty—necessity is mightier.

An educated people is easily governed.

Who over-refines his argument brings himself to grief.

He that walks uprightly walks surely.

All may do what has by men been done.

No one gets into trouble without his own help.

The highest art is artlessness.

We hate delay, yet it makes us wise.

The behavior of men to the lower animals, and their behavior to each other bear a constant relationship.

They are never alone who are accompanied by noble thoughts.

They also serve who only stand and wait.

What greater crime than loss of time?

Tranquility is difficult of attainment in leisure.

A noble mind disdains not to repent.

Fortune often rewards with interest those who have patience to wait for her.

It is well our faults are not written on our faces.

He who possesses a great deal is not the happiest; he who desires little and knows how to enjoy it.

A great deal depends upon a man's courage when he is slandered. Weak men are crushed by detraction, but the brave hold on and succeed.

SOCIETY

A very delightful Halloween party was given Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yeager, 615 Glover street, when they entertained in honor of Miss Darless Marie Fowler of Steubenville, Ohio. The party was a masquerade affair and was charming in every detail. Lovely streamers of orange and black were used in decorating the various rooms, while corn cobs and autumn leaves were also placed in the center of the tables. The evening was pleasantly spent in various social ways, and the main diversion was games, music and dancing. At a late hour an appetizing Halloween lunch of sandwiches, sweet cider, grapes, apples, gingerbread, individual pumpkin custards and minis were served. The favors were clever little yellow baskets filled with minis. The Misses Ruby Tabor and Frances Yeager and Vera McCord assisted the host and hostess in serving the guests who numbered:

Misses Katherine Allen, Marie Fowler, Ruth Cottle, Ida Allen, Charlotte Crosby, Thelma Gilkerson, Garnet Shaw, Grace Kinst, Georgia McCord, Frances Yeager, Ruby Tabor, Jessie Wagner, Emma Knowles, Marie Stone of Kentucky, Mrs. Floyd Revare, Mrs. A. B. Fowler.

Messrs. Richard Dadoosky, Frank Wade, James Cune, William Hag, Harold Lacy, Charles Beaumont.

Owen Stoebe of Kentucky, William Keller, Ralph Hicks, Roy Hicks, Fred Smith, B. B. Prestwood, Floyd Revare, John Middlecamp, McCloud, Carson McCloud, Walter Hoover, Paul Flowers, Thomas Hagan, Fred Yeager, A. B. Tolson.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Roseetta Overturn of McDermott and Mr. Edgar Wilhamson Raynor of Sciotoville, which took place in Catlettsburg, Ky., on Saturday morning, October 27th. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church with the pastor, Reverend A. S. Godley officiating. The bride looked charming in a dark blue suit with accessories to correspond and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Raynor, parents of the groom with whom they will make their home for the present. Mr. Raynor is employed as an inspector at the Portsmouth Works, Wheeling Steel Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kessinger and Miss Snowy Collier of South Portsmouth will make their home with Mr. A. C. Kessinger of Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Joseph S. Dunn and Mrs. Fred J. Baker have returned from Cincinnati, where they went to hear Miss Calli-Care sing in Memorial Hall last Friday night.

The marriage of Mrs. Grace McNamara of Eighth street and Mr. Kyle Lester of Pittsburgh, was quietly solemnized on Saturday evening at five o'clock in the house of the First Presbyterian church with the pastor Reverend William H. Gleser, officiating with the impressive ring ceremony.

The attendants were the bride's only son, Mr. Howard McNamara, who came from Williamson, W. Va., for the wedding. Miss Aris Smith, and F. D. Behr. Mrs. McNamara was attired in a smart blue suit with accessories to correspond and wore a corsage of bride's roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester will make their home for the winter in Cincinnati where Mr. Lester will be connected with the Hyle-Patterson Construction Company of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Lester has been employed for the past few years as bookkeeper with the Tracy Shoe Company on Second street and is now in high esteem by all who know her.

Police Claim Car Was Stolen; Two Youths Are Being Held

A stolen Studebaker six roadster from Columbus was recovered here Sunday noon when Traffic Officer Roby Hawkins arrested two youths in the machine at Sixth and Office streets. The police had been on the lookout for the George Patton Studebaker six roadster, and when this machine passed a couple of the officers and it was noticed that it was carrying only one occupant, it was hurriedly decided to give chase to see if it might be the stolen local car.

Officer Hawkins overtook the car at Sixth and Office, and when the two youths told stories that did not coincide, the officer had them drive to the police station, where they were locked up for investigation. The lads gave their names as Frank Arthurs, 17, and Carl Hartz, 16, and claimed Logan, Ohio, as their home. They said a man by the name of Logan owned the car and had loaned it to them to drive to Columbus last Friday, and that they were taking a little extra trip before returning home. Columbus police were notified and this morning word from Columbus was that the machine had been stolen there and that an officer would come for the youths and the machine.

Announcement

The Better Schools Committee announce

JAMES A. FOLSOM
SMITH CRULL

as candidates for members of the County Board of Education.

Their names to be written on the official ballot and the X mark in the proper place.

THOUSANDS OF VOTERS WILL REGISTER INDIGNATION AT THE POLLS BY WRITING ON THE BALLOT THE NAMES OF JAMES A. FOLSOM AND SMITH CRULL FOR MEMBERS OF COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Every reader already knows the story of how the McCowen faction hunted out the candidates opposed to them and wherever they could find a technical error in any of these petitions filed a complaint with the county board of elections with the purpose of throwing them out.

As a consequence the People's Candidates for the County Board of Education, James A. Folsom and Smith Crull have been denied the privilege of having their names printed on the official ballots.

The County Board of Elections was equally divided on the question as to whether or not these candidates should be permitted to have their names appear on the ballot and the matter was referred to the Secretary of State who decided against them. It was then taken to the Supreme Court where the Secretary of State's decision was upheld by a vote of 4 to 3 on the grounds that his decision according to law was final. Chief Justice Marshall and Justices Wanamaker and Allen of the Supreme Court voted to allow a writ of mandamus against the Secretary of State and County Board of Elections that would have compelled the placing of the candidates' names on the ballot.

However the People's Candidates are not so easily whipped. They know that the great majority of the voters want them elected and they are still in the fight TO WIN.

At the last County Board election two of the three People's Candidates won out in a campaign against the political school government machine. It was the greatest victory for FREE SCHOOLS that the county ever witnessed—a most timely and decisive blow to Political Government in our school system.

Never was there a clearer sample of the utter disregard of the rights of others—a more definite proof of unscrupulous methods—a more sinister warning to the people to awaken to the needs of the hour and rescue their schools from the clutches of such an organization.

There were many, many other petitions filed in Scioto County this year and other years that were technically illegal but did their political opponents protest them? No. Only the boss behind our present school government would stoop to such unfair and unsportsmanlike tactics but NO ONE MAN NOR ANY GANG CAN FORCE THE VOTERS OF SCIOTO COUNTY TO VOTE FOR THEIR CANDIDATES by throwing their opponents off the ballot. Never was there a more defiant challenge to the people of any county.

We are certain that there are enough red blooded Americans in Scioto County—men and women who believe in a fair fight and the principles of democracy who will answer this challenge with an overwhelming victory for FREE SCHOOLS by writing on the ballots in black and white the names of

X James A. Folsom

How They Fared at Golf Tournament

Relative to the Tri-State Golf Tournament held in Ashland, Saturday, the Huntington Herald-Dispatch Sunday said:

Coasters representing Guyan Country club of Huntington piled up enough points against teams representing the Ashland and Portsmouth clubs at Ashland yesterday to retain possession of the Tri-State Cup.

Huntington will retain permanent possession of the cup if the Guyan players exhibit the same skill in next year's matches to win the mug for the third time.

Though Ashland golfers defeated the Huntington team in yesterday's play, Huntington piled up enough points to win the Tri-State Cup.

The season score for three matches: Huntington 162 points, Ashland 124 points, Portsmouth 84 points.

Huntington won 32 1/2 points in the first match at Huntington in the spring, while Ashland was taking 33 1/2 and Portsmouth 25 points.

In the second match, played at Portsmouth, Huntington chalked up 54 1/2 points, Ashland 30 1/2 and Portsmouth 25.

In the third match, played yesterday at Ashland, Huntington amassed 48 points, Ashland 51 and Portsmouth 24.

While the Huntington players were guaranteeing the retention of the coveted Tri-State Cup on its resting place over the big fire place at Guyan country club yesterday, Barney Kelly, the Guyan club professional, was sitting down hard and straight for a snappy 71 in the professional match at Ashland yesterday, defeating Shore, Ashland professional, one up, and Weidman, Portsmouth professional, one up.

The individual scores yesterday:

HUNTINGTON—M. Hawkins, 2; A. B. Bost, 3; E. B. Bost, 4; J. V. G. Boyd, 4 1/2; J. M. Ligon, 5; E. V. Carter, 5 1/2; G. W. Long, 12; J. J. Miller, 13; J. M. Parker, 24; J. J. Ross, 4 1/2; Frank P. Swan, 6; J. L. Hawkins, 8; R. O. O'Neal, 11; O. Aleshire, 3.

PORTSMOUTH—E. Ferguson, 2 1/2; A. H. Bannan, 3; J. M. Briggs, 3 1/2; J. M. Bost, 4; J. H. Goodman, 2 1/2; Floyd Fuller, 1; Earl Pursell, 1; Edmund Krieger, 0; James Breese, 1 1/2; P. E. Selby, 0; Frank Moulton, 3; R. C. Spangler, 0.

ASHLAND—Tom Kentner 4 1/2; Tom Hudson, 3 1/2; T. J. Shaut, 5 1/2; J. M. Stewart, 3 1/2; J. B. Bost, 0; W. A. Davis, 0; John Kobs, 4; John Warner, 5 1/2; H. P. Carson, 4 1/2; Charles Russell, 3; E. C. Means, 5 1/2; W. P. Fields, 2; Davis Geiger, 6.

Now Hockey League Is Meeting

CLEVELAND, O., October 29.—(By the Associated Press).—Several proposed changes in the playing code which would permit local associations to affiliate with it were ready for presentation to the United States Amateur Hockey League Convention here today.

Election of officers was also on the program, but it was pointed out that, inasmuch as all members had nominated them without opposition, the reelection of William S. Haddock, president; Roy Schooley, secretary-treasurer; and other incumbents was assured.

Plans for the team which will represent the league at the Olympic games to tour the league for a series of games also were ready for submission to the delegates. Funds derived from these games will be used to defray the team's expenses to France.

President Haddock said he would appoint committees from the Eastern and Western groups to draft schedules. He predicted the season will open about December 20.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Dilly Gilman, her mother, Mrs. Gilman, with Della Thornbury, a divorcee, are trimming a Christmas tree in the Church of the Nativity, a fashionable church of New York. Mrs. J. Orson Tice, society leader, comes in with Jerry Goodkind, a man-about-town, who is interested in Clara Jewett, engaged to the Rev. Daniel Gilchrist, the assistant rector of the church, in bad favor because of his radical sermons.

Dr. Wadhams, the rector, drops in to attend a meeting of the wardens. Charles Benfield declares that either he or Gilchrist must leave the church. Jerry proposes marriage to Clara.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"You think it's so odd at 3:45 on Christmas eve," he leered. "Well, keep your ears and your mind open, and see how you feel in the morning. My telephone's Rinehander six-nine-four-two—and this is the last time I shall ask you."

"Wait!"
He paused for Clara to proceed. "Whatever you believe," she continued, "I love Mr. Gilchrist."

"Thinker six-nine-four two," was his only comment.

CHAPTER IV
The Meeting of the Wardens
CLARA JEWETT stared with burning, angry eyes at the door the closed upon Jerry Goodkind. It seemed to her as though he had passed on the other side to her through the heavy oak panel. As she took a step forward, an echo announced the closing of the outer door and she turned back.

She looked down to see that her hands, clenching unconsciously in nervous tension, were crushing the tissue-wrapped packages she still held. Fuming, she hurried them to the foot of the tree where others lay piled high, just as Dr. Wadhams came.

"Mr. Benfield isn't interested in clothing."
"No, but he's invested heavily in my West Virginia coal mines, and down there we're on the verge of the biggest walkout in our history. You see what I mean?"

The Rev. Dr. Wadhams nodded knowingly.
"The labor problem's none of the church's business," continued Goodkind, turning up, "for any outside business. It's a worrisome subject and there's no good stirring it up. That's what you want to tell Gilchrist."

Mr. Wadhams lifted a hand in a gesture of futility.
"I have told him," he said, "frequently."

"Add what's the answer?"
"He says every problem ought to be the church's business, and that until the church becomes a power in life issues it isn't a power in life." "He won't listen to reason? Then he'll have to listen to something else. If he persists about this Christmas sermon—"

Mr. Barnaby opened the door. The two paused.
"There's a man out there wants to see Mr. Gilchrist," he apologized.

"What kind of a man?" asked Dr. Wadhams.
"A poor man. I think he's a Jew."

"Who ever heard of a poor Jew?" Mr. Goodkind scorned.

"Mr. Gilchrist isn't here," interposed Dr. Wadhams.

"I told him that, but he won't go away. Why don't he go over to the synagogue instead of hanging around a Christian church?" Mr. Gilchrist gave him his overcoat this morning and I guess he's come back for the gloves."

"I'll speak to Mr. Gilchrist," dismissed Dr. Wadhams, and Mr. Barnaby, shaking his head disbelievingly, left.

"Well, there you are," said Goodkind, with the air of a prosecutor closing the state's case. "And that's what I wanted to talk to you about yesterday—what's got into the boy? Has he gone crazy?"

"I've asked myself that," Dr. Wadhams answered in perplexity. "I've asked myself whether what he saw in France—"

"Exactly. A lot of young fellows go off the handle and start to run from the world, but this had run through $20,000 in less than three months."

"In addition, to his salary?"
"Yes, I could understand it if he'd spent the money on himself, but he hasn't. He's given it away! Gilchrist's father was my first partner, and I got the boy in here and I feel responsible for him. As trustee, I can refuse to turn over another penny of his principal, and as senior warden, I can demand his resignation from this church. But I want him to have every chance. Tell him I'll get a grip on himself and reconsider to-morrow's sermon—"

"This time it was 'Charlie' Benfield who interrupted. The chastening shadows of a twilight church did not soften the flinty features of the man. He was of the type that is known as self-made. He adopted a repugnant and insolence to hide his glaring lack of education, refinement and appreciation.

"The third time Dr. Wadhams looked at his hat he removed it.
"Hello, George!" he greeted.

"How'd you, doctor. Am I late?"
"We've been waiting for you," said Dr. Wadhams nervously. He was always uneasy when Benfield was about. "Haven't we better retire to my study if we're going to discuss Mr. Gilchrist?"

"We're not," Benfield disagreed emphatically. "We've been discussing long enough. All I got to say now is, Gilchrist leaves this church or I do."

"Now, wait a minute," said the senior warden calmly.

"Isn't that a little mandatory," said Dr. Wadhams, faking courage. "I don't know what it is, but it goes," continued Benfield positively. "I've worked hard all my life, and now this fellow gets up and tells me what I've worked for is nothing, that I'm nothing, and that all my ideas are wrong."

"Wait a minute, Charlie," interposed Goodkind. "That's not the tone to take to Dr. Wadhams. We all feel that Gilchrist has gone too far and we're agreed—"

"Does he preach to-morrow?" Benfield shouted.

"A CHURCH THAT ISN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR TWO MEN," HE SAID, "MUST BE SOMEWHAT CROWDED FOR GOD."

"We're agreed that if he insists upon preaching about the strike—"

"He goes!"
"He goes!"
"All right. And if he doesn't insist?"
"He stays."

Benfield's voice of wrath had drowned the opening and closing of the door. Back to the panel, Daniel Gilchrist squared his shoulders. They were broad shoulders and had carried him through many a brick-wall fight, and he was no longer a boy. At 23 he was still trim and fit. This was primarily due to the self-denial one read in his slender, ascetic face.

Even in the shadow his smile was visible. It lighted his eyes with good humor. They were honest eyes, with sincerity and eagerness in their fire. There was nothing forbidding about his figure. Indeed, there was an empyrean sympathy which caught and held, first, the attention, then the deepest interest.

Benfield had thrust his hat back on his head.

"I go I tell you," he blustered. "You can decide which is the most valuable to your church. It ain't big enough for Gilchrist and me."

Daniel stepped forward quietly. He was smiling.

"A church that isn't big enough for two little men, Mr. Benfield," he said simply, "must be somewhat crowded for God."

CHAPTER V
Dismissed

BENFIELD turned on the advancing figure savagely. A torrent of vituperation surged through his brain. But somehow the tranquility of the figure before him disarmed him completely. His attack became nothing more than a scowl and when this met a smile his rout was complete.

He stormed past Gilchrist and the slam of the door a moment later was the only audible indication of his ire.

"Mr. Benfield is a little—ah—little," roared Dr. Wadhams, rubbing his hands wearily.

"Yes," said Daniel. "A little." His face still gleamed from the cold outside. Goodkind picked up his hat and sauntered toward him.

"Pneumonia, Daniel," he advised in a fatherly tone. "Where's your overcoat?"

"Outside," was the response.

The air necessary for combustion in burner is controlled by air shutter which you can turn slightly from time to time to obtain just the right mixture of air and gas to produce the blue non-luminous flame, which gives the most intense heat. Avoid yellow or red flames which blacken utensils and waste fuel.

Clean your cooking burners often. The small burner holes frequently become clogged, prevent the free passage of gas and thus hinder the cooking.
